

Minding the Law / Law in the Mind

A Symposium on Japanese Criminal Justice And Psychology and Law in Japan

September 4, 4:30 PM – 7:00 PM

September 5, 9:00 AM – 12:00 PM

William S. Richardson School of Law, Room 254

Sponsored by The William S. Richardson School of Law,
Pacific Asian Legal Studies Program (PALS) and The Japan
Society for the Promotion of Science

Please RSVP to Lisa Sugai at lisans@hawaii.edu by noon, Wednesday, September 3, 2014, indicating which sessions you plan to attend.

Lunch will be provided on Friday, September 5th
for up to 20 attendees who RSVP.

Program

September 4: "Minding the Law"

New Developments in Japanese Criminal Justice

4:30pm Light Refreshments for Participants

5:30pm - 7:00pm Keynote Presentations

- Makoto Ibusuki (Professor, Seijo University)
Is Silence Golden, Is Speech Silver?: Sociopolitical Analysis of the Recent Criminal Justice Reform Process in Japan
- Masahiro Fujita (Associate Professor, Kansai University)
A Five-year Look Back at the Japanese Mixed Jury System (Saiban-in system)
- Moderator: Mark Levin (Professor, William S. Richardson School of Law)

September 5: "Law in the Mind"

Psychology and Law in Japan

9:00am – 12:00pm Workshop Presentations

- Kosuke Wakabayashi (Lecturer, Ritsumeikan University)
Inside Deliberation: Comparing between Pure Jury and Mixed Jury Deliberation
- Koichi Hioki (Assistant Professor, Kobe University)
How Physiological Indexes Depict Social Cognition
- Syugo Hotta (Professor, Meiji University)
Trademark Genericide and Psycholinguistics
- Justin Levinson (Professor, William S. Richardson School of Law)
New Dimensions in Law and Implicit Bias: Implicit White Favoritism